About The American Institute of Architects

Based in Washington, D.C., the American Institute of Architects (AIA) has been the leading professional membership association for licensed architects, emerging professionals, and allied partners since 1857. As AIA members, more than 83,000 licensed architects and allied professionals express their commitment to excellence in design and livability in our nation's buildings and cities. Members adhere to a code of ethics and professional conduct that assures the client, the public, and colleagues of an AIA member architect's dedication to the highest standards in professional practice.

AIA MARYLAND ALLIED MEMBERSHIP

Allied Membership is offered to individuals employed outside of the architectural practice, but who are involved in a position related to the field of architecture. Allied Membership is designed to build and strengthen communication among all members of the design/construction team. Allied members must be registered to practice their professions where such requirements exist, and show established professional reputations. They cannot be individuals licensed to practice architecture.
